THE Book Mark

By JANE VOILES

"Allo Good-by. By Zephine Humphrey. (Dutton $2.50).

The Humphreys live in Vermont. Like other couples who are no longer as young, they have to go in search of a warm climate in winter. One year it was Christopher's sciatia that sent them to winter in Arizona, this time Zephine's ear sends them south and eventually into Mexico. Let us say at the beginning that this is no guide book. To be honest, we have always thought that Mrs. Humphrey wrote her best books at home—"Winter-wise," "Ohrysalis," and "The Beloved Community." The books have a kind of David Grayson Adventures in Contentment quality that endears them to the mature reader.

What gives "Allo Good-by" its special charm is not any profound knowledge of Mexico—indeed specialists and even general readers can detect some rather obvious errors. What readers will remember are humorous touches in trying to get fresh points of view and the glimpses into little episodes of human interest in the crowd of drab humanity that for the most part makes up the population of Mexico. Whether or not these two items justify the reading of the book depends upon your own point of view.

The Humphreys travel by motor and the average lean purse accompanies them. They are pre-occupied with accommodations, clean beds and plain wholesome fare but, like all good travelers, once in a while they kick over the traces and have a grand splurge by going to a good hotel or a swanky restaurant. Draughty bedrooms and dining rooms redolent of decades of cooking need an antidote.

Beaufort, South Carolina almost won the Humphreys away from Mexico. "It had more than the magic spirit of place," for them, in fact, its very stillness gave forth a quality of assurance and strength. (What a haven for psychiatric patients the place must be). The coast life of Florida they found shallow and shoddy. They left it without regrets. In New Orleans they parked their car on the edge of the Vieux Carre and lunched for fifty cents in a recently opened cafe that opened into a court whose beauty summed up New Orleans. This court was in the eighteenth century spirit but with none of the sterile restoration touch that makes a place a museum instead of one of vibrant animation as real restoration should.

It was in San Antonio that they made up their minds to go into Mexico. For guides they used "Mexico in Your Own Car," by T. S. Power, and "Guide to Mexico for the Motorist," by W. B. Goolsby. The title "Allo Good-by" you will recognize, if you have been to Mexico, as the greeting by which Mexican children hail newcomers.

The first long stop, two weeks which was long in their limited period of seven weeks, was at Tamazunchale, pronounced "Thomas and Charley" where they found the rare combination of American comfort at an excellent motor court and an intrinsic Indian life in the village.

They stopped at Cuernavaca of glorious reputation where the Aztec prince had a home and also Cortez, Maximilian and Dwight Morhow had lived. Here Mrs. Humphreys was struck by the confusion of old and new. One of the oldest known sounds as he says, is that made by the patting of tortillas. Back and back in history that old sound goes "before Columbus, before Vespucci, before Caesar or Ptolemy or perhaps even Moses."

Walking along one of the old streets of Cuernavaca the Humphreys hear the ancient sound. Looking into the shop they see not

Petty Theft Charges Yield Jail Terms

Albert Knockie, who was returned Thursday from Oakland, and J. K. Kennedy, arrested earlier in the week, were under ten-day jail terms Friday following their conviction on charges of petty theft.

The two figured in separate cases. Knockie was sentenced by Justice of the Peace J. W. Landis, of Diamond Springs. He had been arrested on the complaint of W. D. Caswell.

Kennedy was sentenced by Justice of the Peace T. F. Lewis, in Placerville. His arrest, officials said, resulted from his presence in a hotel room not his own.

DERBY MEETING TONIGHT

Committee, Entries, Sponsors, Parents And Other Friends Welcome

An important meeting of all those connected with the El Dorado County Soapbox Derby, to be held Sunday, July 7th, will be held at 7:30 o'clock tonight at the War Veterans' Memorial Building.

Members of the Soapbox Derby committee, the entries, their sponsors and the parents and other friends of the entries are to unite in the meeting.

Final details of the preparations for the race will be considered at the meeting and the boys who expect to enter the race but have not filed their formal entries will have opportunity to do so.

The race is tentatively scheduled to be held on Main Street but it is reported a committee of the derby committee made a survey of certain other possible locations on Thursday night, and may report to the meeting recommending one of the other sites.

Although permission to hold the race on Main Street was granted, the committee is mindful of the possibility that there may be heavy tourist travel through the community on the day of the race, Sunday, July 7, and is considering other possible sites with the thought in mind that a serious interference with highway traffic should be avoided.

Those who have actually filed entry registrations in the race are Billy Owens, George Besse, Paul Ewing, Henry Pierroz, Teddy Berg, John Weidman, Jim Franklin, Carl Lewis, Philip Morton, George Meistrell, Jack Tagmeier and Robert G. Land, all of Placerville; John Ward, of Smith Flat; Walter Griffith, Ora Nida, Jr., and Gerald Braden, of Camino; Marvin Vose, of Fiddletown and Daryl Vose, of Pacific.

Several others are making plans to enter the race but have failed up to this time to register their entries.

C. E. Convention At Sacramento

Twelve From Placerville Attend Meeting Thursday Night At Civic Auditorium

The annual state convention of the Christian Endeavor Society opened at Sacramento Friday for a four-day session, at the Memorial Auditorium.

A group of twelve from the Christian Endeavor societies of the Federated Church was at Sacramento Thursday evening for a pre-convention meeting, and several of the local membership have made plans to attend the various sessions of the convention proper.

In the group Thursday evening were Dan and Richard Walter, Sylvia Johnson, Calvin Wright, Robert Combellack, Margaret and Harold Morehouse, Doris and Alice Toombs and Pearl Ringgenberg, who were accompanied by Mrs. Stella Winn and Rev. Morehouse.

The principal talk was by A. L. Baker, field secretary for the Race Betterment Association, who explained to the young people that history is being made today which is as important or more important than the history they read of in the time of Alexander the Great.

He asserted that while we may read of important events in earlier times and "wish we had lived during those days," the present period in the world's history will be set down by historians of the future as one of the most important in thousands of years, and we are helping to make that history.

New Postoffice Dedication Is Being Arranged

Single Ceremony Will Combine Cornerstone And Opening Of Building, Postmaster Reveals; Preparations Are Tentative At This Time

The cornerstone of the new Placerville postoffice will be set and the building will be dedicated at a ceremony for which tentative plans have been under way for some time, it was revealed Friday by Postmaster Anna Scherrer.

The postmaster pointed out that if a cornerstone ceremony had been held at the time of the completion of the foundation of the new building, or soon afterward, there would have been need for a second public ceremony dedicating the building, and those in charge decided against this plan.

Therefore, the contractor was instructed to leave a place for setting of the cornerstone and this has been done, and the cornerstone will be placed at the time of dedication of the building.

What date the exercises may be held have not been determined, the postmaster said, but the program will take place probably on the Saturday before the office is moved from the old location to the new building on a Sunday.

The cornerstone ceremony and dedication will be conducted under civic or fraternal auspices and a detailed program will be announced in due time, the postmaster said.

DINNER MARKS CLOSE OF LONG CITY SERVICE FOR TWO

Former City Clerk And Outgoing City Attorney Share As Hosts Thursday Evening With Their Official Associates For 16 Years As Guests

The "official family," sixteen years old and younger in city service, met Thursday evening at Hotel Raffles at dinner with Mrs. Esther Mahler Petach and Thomas Maul as hosts.

The occasion was arranged jointly by the former city clerk and Mr. Maul, who resigns as city attorney effective June 30th, as a testimonial of their appreciation for their association for approximately sixteen years with the municipal government.

Mrs. Petach, serving with her father, the late A. J. Mahler, as a deputy city clerk and then for almost fourteen years as city clerk, had an association of sixteen years with the municipal government and Mr. Maul's retirement as city attorney closes sixteen years of service in that office, including one term as a member of the council.

And so, the two who were hosts reached back through the years and invited to be their guests at a dinner commemorating their long association, all of the members of the council through those years and all employees of the city who were available, with their ladies.

Guy E. Wentworth, for many years city treasurer, was toastmaster, and called on several of those present for short talks. M. T. Kelly was the oldest council in point of the dates of his term present and gave a general review of the growth of the city since "away back when."

Among those whom the hosts had invited to be their guests were Mr. and Mrs. M. T. Kelly, Mr. and Mrs. Max Baer, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Simon, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Quigley, Mr. and Mrs. E. T. Benney, Dr. M. E. Howland, Dr. and Mrs. Lester B. Rantz, Mr. and Mrs. George E. Faugstad, John A. Raffetto, Sr. Mr. and Mrs. Matthew Blair, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. John Dugan, Mr. and Mrs. Philip Frost, Mr. and Mrs. Will Myers, Mr. and Mrs. M. E. Raber, Mr. and Mrs. James K. Pierson, Mr. and Mrs. S. E. Price, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Molinari, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Lewis, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph C. Beach, Albert H. Greeley, Mrs. Robert Roddan, Mrs. Fred N. Hosking, and

Mr. and Mrs. Peter J. Hall, Mr. and Mrs. Glenn D. Stevens, Mr. and Mrs. Clifton Wildman, Mr. and Mrs. James P. Morton, Mr. and Mrs. D. W. Le Bourveau, Miss Pauline Watkins, Richard Barry, Harold W. Duden, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph W. Jones, Mr. and Mrs. Russell Anderson, Guy E. Wentworth, Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Killian, Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Creed, Hale Day, Mr. and Mrs. L. J. Anderson, Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Green, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Irwin, Mr. and Mrs. Mark Tetrault, Mrs. Maul and Mrs. Petach shared with the host and hostess.

Some of those who were invited were unable to attend owing to unforeseen circumstances or because of prior engagements.

WILLKIE NAMED FOR PRESIDENT

Senator McNary Likely Choice As Running Mate On Republican Ticket

PHILADELPHIA, (UP)—Wendell L. Willkie announced today that he will resign his presidency of the Commonwealth and Southern Corporation, as a result of his nomination as Republican candidate for president.

PHILADELPHIA (UP)—Senate Republican leader Charles L. McNary of Oregon was slated by Republican leaders today as the vice presidential running mate of G. O. P. presidential nominee Wendell L. Willkie of New York and Indiana.

For political considerations, Willkie wanted a far westerner and an outstanding Republican to complete his ticket.

McNary filled the bill on every particular. He is 66, has been in the senate since 1917, has been minority leader throughout the new deal.

Like Willkie, McNary has not been opposed to every feature of President Roosevelt's legislative program. After Former Gov. Alf M. Landon of Kansas, 1936 G. O. P. nominee, announced that he would second McNary's nomination, the senator said in Washington that he would accept the job "if it is imposed upon me."

McNary will be nominated by M. S. Moeser of Minnesota.

Willkie was nominated at 1:02 a. m. today after six ballots in which he moved down first, District Attorney Thomas E. Dewey of New York, then, Sen. Robert A. Taft of Ohio. It was made unanimous on the sixth ballot after the old foxes of Pennsylvania passed the vote to caucus midway in the roll call, and, finally, sent a solid 72 votes aboard the Willkie band wagon. That made the count 570, or 69 over the 501 bare majority, and the battle was over.

4 Mos. In Jail For Bad Checks

3-Year Probation Granted With Restitution Of All Funds As Condition

W. R. Fowler, who had pleaded guilty to a charge of issuing worthless check, was granted probation in Superior Court Friday morning, subject to special conditions to which he agreed.

The terms of the probation will apply for three years and the special conditions are that he must serve four months in the county jail and make restitution for the worthless checks cashed.

These, officials stated, aggregate approximately $108 and consist of checks issued during the Memorial Day weekend, when Fowler was taken into custody.

The defendant had previously entered a dual plea denying guilt and pleading that he was not guilty by reason of insanity. Early this week, following examination during the weekend by a court appointed alienist, the accused withdrew his dual plea and entered a plea of guilt.

CLIFF DANIEL HELD TO ANSWER MOTOR VEHICLE CHARGE

Cliff Daniel, charged by his wife, Mrs. Mary Kramp Daniel, with taking her car without her consent, was bound over to the Superior Court Friday afternoon following a preliminary hearing before Justice of the Peace T. F. Lewis.

Daniel had been returned Wednesday from San Francisco where he had been arrested at the request of county authorities following Mrs. Daniels' complaint. It was also reported the wife had charged her husband in Lake Valley township with assault and battery.

The accused, according to District Attorney Henry S. Lyon, has admitted a prior conviction of forgery.

MASON ACTIVE TO YEARS
FARMINGTON, Mass., (UP)—Walter F. Partridge, 92, believes he is the nation's oldest mason in point of service. Born in Franklin in 1848, Partridge has been active in masonic work for 76 years. He became a master mason three months after his 22d birthday.

Margaret Mellon, 23, Chicago and South Air Lines hostess, smiles brightly, and she has every reason to do so. She won title of Miss Annual Aviation 1940 at the 10th annual air carnival in Birmingham.

DEFENSE TAX ILLUSTRATED

Average Family Will Pay $10 Per Year More In "Hidden" Levies

WASHINGTON, (UP)—The average American family will have to pay about $10-a-year more in hidden taxes as a result of the new billion dollar defense tax bill, a United Press survey indicated today.

The average family was selected from statistics compiled by the living costs division of the labor department. It is composed of four persons—parents and two children—and has an annual income of $1,524.

For a family of the same size with a yearly income of $2,500, the living cost increase would be about $20. But neither the $1,524 or the $2,500 family would have to pay an income tax despite the increases in the new measure. The increases would come in the excise levies.

Some of the increases for the $1,524 family, based on average consumption of goods on which the taxes have been augmented:

$7.45 more for cigarettes; $1.86 more for movies, sports and other admissions; 15 cents more for gasoline; four cents more for toilet preparations; and about 39 per cent more per gallon for alcoholic beverages (for which it now spends $5.44).

Expenditures of any one family would vary, of course, and so would the taxes on the individual items, but the average would be the same.

A man buying a bottle of beer, now selling at 15 cents, might possibly have to pay 16 cents as a result of the new tax. It increases the tax from 5¢ to 6¢ a barrel, which is three-tenths of a cent per bottle.

The cigarette tax is increased from $3 to $3.25 per thousand, or a half-cent a package. If two packages were selling for 25 cents now, they might cost 26 cents after July 1.

If gasoline were selling five gallons for $1.00, the tax bill's boost of from one cent to one and a half cents per gallon would bring it to about $1.03. If the purchase price of an automobile were $850, the tax increase of from 3 per cent to 3½ per cent would bring it to about $885.

A 30 cent movie, under the new tax of 10 per cent for each 10 cents over 20, would cost 33 cents. A compact costing $1 now under the increase of from 10 to 11 per cent would cost $1.10. A $50 radio under the half per cent increase of the new bill would cost 25 cents more.

The income tax exemptions of the new bill lower the exemptions for single persons from $1,000 to $800 and for married persons from $2,500 to $2,000 and exacts a 10 per cent tax earmarked for defense. The $400 exemption for each dependent and the 10 per cent earned income credit of the present law are maintained.

Burglary Preliminary In Tahoe Township

Charles Hinson, charged with burglary, was taken to Lake Valley Friday afternoon by Sheriff George M. Smith for a preliminary hearing before Justice of the Peace Dwight Martin. Deputy District Attorney Robert E. Roberts accompanied the sheriff and the prisoner to Lake Valley to represent the People in the hearing.

SOVIET MOVES INTO RUMANIA

Russian Action, Nazis Say, In Keeping With Plans For "New Era In Europe"

By UNITED PRESS

Soviet Russia revised Europe's frontiers again today—the 21st anniversary of the Versailles treaty—when the Red army took Bessarabia and Northern Bukovina from the Kingdom of Rumania.

The Red army occupation by airplane and motorized units was swift and peaceful and boosted the Russian gains since the start of the European war to 343,000 square miles and 14,600,000 population, but the reorganized military government of Rumania asserted that it would fight the territorial demands which Hungary and Bulgaria are reported presenting to Bucharest.

Nazis said that the Russian action was taken in line with the German and Italian desire for a new era in Europe which would correct what they termed the injustices of the Versailles treaty. This viewpoint was supported in part at least by the Russian official communique saying that is acted at a time when "the present in-

Smith, Russi's Slayer, Spared

Governor Commutes Death Sentence To Life Term In State's Prison

SACRAMENTO—Lloyd W. Smith, slayer of Grover Russi, widely known rancher in the Elk Grove-Franklin district has been spared from death in San Quentin Prison's lethal gas chamber.

Acting on the recommendations of the state advisory pardon board and Superior Judge Dal M. Lemmon of Sacramento county, the trial court judge, Governor Culbert L. Olson commuted Smith's sentence to life imprisonment.

Smith's defense that he was so intoxicated at the time he bludgeoned Russi to death with a piece of firewood in a quarrel over the weather was the basis on which clemency was extended.

The killing occurred March 8, 1939. Smith, whom Russi had befriended, had been working as handyman on the Russi ranch for some time.

Judge Lemmon declared in a letter to the governor that he always has been convinced that because of the circumstances of intoxication the penalty inflicted against Smith should be life imprisonment rather than death.

RE-BIRTH OF AMERICA FORECAST IN TRIALS OF NEAR FUTURE

The re-birth of America and the forging of an American people, as a result of working harder and longer for less money in support of the national defense program, was forecast Thursday night by Theodore Fairchild, in an address at Placerville Grammar school.

Mr. Fairchild, public relations counsel for the San Francisco Employers' Council, addressed a small but select audience on the subject of "Labor Relations and National Defense" under auspices of Pro-America, national Republican women's organization.

Mrs. Lorene Roberts was chairman for the meeting.

Mr. Fairchild predicted that both national labor unions will have to "clean house" or government action will require it.

Red Cross Production Work Continuing

Although the regular meeting of the production section of the Red Cross chapter, scheduled for Thursday of the coming week, will not be held since the date is July 4, members of the section will continue their work in their own homes until the regular meeting schedule is resumed, according to word from chapter officers.

Mrs. Fannie Keller has returned from a two week's trip to San Francisco. Mrs. Keller combined pleasure and business on the trip and enjoyed several visits to the Exposition while in the bay area.

women in reboos seated on the ground with primitive implements but women arrayed in clean Sears Roebuck dresses with waved hair and tinted fingernails. Fortunately for the preservation of atmosphere, at least, they were not using an electric mixer but the time-old method of patting.

While Taxco was a village it was more sophisticated than Tamazunchale, the distinction being that there were fewer affable pigs roaming about the streets. Fiestas are religiously observed in all of the villages and the Humphreys came in for one at Taxco. There were men in gay Serapes, girls in mantillas, swarms of children and the ubiquitous dogs. Most impressive was the plaintive Mexican music in which Mrs. Humphreys heard symbolically the wail of downtrodden Mexico. This same spirit marked the murals of Diego Rivera in the Governor's Palace at Cuernavaca. Here expressed in terms of an original art form is the tortured history of the Mexican people. "Pity burned into compassion and then into a kind of fury." It is in the art, in the music, in the life of the people and in the exalted environment of the volcanoes Popo and Ixtla that the soul of Mexico lies according to Mrs. Humphreys.

"Allo Good-by" will not add quantitatively to your knowledge of Mexico but it will give you a qualitative standard by which to judge the country.

The Golden Text will be: "The prophecy came not in old time by the will of man; but holy men of God spake as they were moved by the Holy Ghost" (II Peter 1: 21). Other Bible citations will include: "Jesus cried and said, He that believeth on me, believeth not on men, but on him that sent me. . . I am come a light into the world, that whosoever believeth on me should not abide in darkness" (John 12: 44, 46).

The Lesson-Sermon will also include the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "Christian Science is drawing upon a material age. The great spiritual facts of being, like rays of light shine in the darkness, though the darkness, comprehending them not, may deny their reality. The proof that the system stated in this book is Christianly scientific resides in the good this system accomplishes, for it cures on a divine demonstration Principle which all may understand" (p. 546).

Little Fellow Guided By a Real Teacher

By GARRY CLEVELAND MYERS, Ph.D.

FROM A teacher comes this letter:

"Dear Dr. Myers: As a country school teacher, I believe with you in celebrating children's successes. A real teacher of my acquaintance has as her classroom motto, 'Complimentation not condemnation.' It is mine, too, but once this past year, under the repeated advice of my superintendent, I reversed my method and nearly brought disaster into the life of one youngster, who is below par mentally. He has been in first grade three years, but this delay in promotion has not diminished his great joy in his school work, and his face beams like the sun as he busily works away at the few things he is able to accomplish successfully.

Balks Completely

"Much against my convictions, I ordered him to 'hard labor' in a prison workshop. He did his level best (no more than he had always done, for he had always tried so hard), but I scowled and scolded, and demanded more and more while he felt himself sinking in defeat and humiliation.

"He stood it bravely until one day, when he balked completely and when punished, cried out, 'I hate this old school. I never want to come to school any more'.

"Then I said to myself, 'I have committed a crime if I cannot bring back to this child the joy that has been his through his small successes. How would I feel in his place?' He readily responded to old treatment and in June passed from the A division into second grade, his confidence in his ability to succeed in top notch. He will be two years at least in this grade (teachers can't make brains), but he will be happy if I teach him."

Solving Parent Problems
Q. My boy of four will strike at me when displeased with my command of a disciplinary sort.
A. Try to make fewer commands, but when you do and the child strikes at you turn him over your knee and give him such pain as he will remember. Do this for every such offense and do it instantly, until the offense wholly disappears.

Q. I have a baby nine months old. He goes about on his kiddy car and pulls everything down he can lay his hands on. In any way I can train him he must not touch things except his own toys.
A. Spend several short periods each day while he is on his kiddy car explaining to him what he can touch and what he must not touch. Center on a few things he must always avoid. Give him instant physical pain when he touches them. Merely keep him from other things or put them out of his reach, bringing them back gradually as he learns to avoid certain other things permanently. Otherwise, don't let him have the kiddy car when you can't supervise him. No sense in punishing him for touching any particular object at all unless you can be sure he always will be punished when he touches it. Be sure he has a number of things he can freely handle and enjoy.

MANSION OF FEAR

by Mildred Snow Gleason

Marcia Howards receives a mysterious letter from her father asking her to join him at Stipstone. On the train she meets a handsome young doctor, Larry Norton, who knows her father and becomes interested in her. Mr. Howards has bought a house, the large, forbidding looking Stip estate. Marcia dislikes the place immediately—its heavy steel door and cell-like rooms—but her father plans to change it completely. Then local carpenters refuse to work in the house. Larry thinks it is the work of Sidney Allstone, a powerful man, who is his bitter enemy. One afternoon, while Larry and Marcia are at the house, Allstone comes to call. When he has gone, Marcia calls Larry but he has disappeared. She searches the house and discovers a secret trapdoor leading to the attic. There she finds Larry, unconscious. She revives him, and he tells her that he has been attacked.

CHAPTER VII
MARCIA stared at him for a moment, not understanding. "Larry, you mean you were attacked?" "Exactly," he answered grimly. "While you were talking to Allstone, I slipped back in the house. I heard someone pattering lightly up the stairs. I ran after him and then—" he broke off abruptly. "But—where am I?"

Marcia looked astonished. "Why, in the attic. Have you forgotten?" Larry put his hands to his head. "I can't think very clearly," he said quietly. "but I haven't forgotten what happened. I had just passed the first room in the upstairs corridor, and had stopped to listen when something crashed down on my head. I lost consciousness."

"He might have killed you," Marcia whispered, her lips pale. Larry looked at her for a moment, and the expression in her eyes seemed to give him new strength. They were both silent, feeling something that needed no words. Then with an effort he steadied himself with a hand against the wall. As his head cleared, he began to look around, moving slowly. Marcia followed him, really taking stock of the room for the first time.

THAT originally the place had been an ordinary attic was obvious from the slope of the eaves, but otherwise it looked very little like one. The ceiling had been plastered and the walls white-washed. A powerful arc lamp lighted the enormous room even to the farthest corners. Against one wall was an empty white cabinet, a long, enamel-topped table, and one chair. Near the trap door was a ladder, a coil of rope, and something that looked like a large boat hook.

Larry walked over to the sink and turned on the water frowning. "Of course," he muttered. "you used the water. It came rusty at first."

Marcia shook her head. "No, it was clear right from the beginning."

Larry fumbled in his pockets and pulled out a package of cigarettes. "Well," he said finally, "it is obvious that this place has been used recently." He nodded toward the lamp. "That bulb is new. A little plaster on the floor and some dirt," he went on, thinking aloud. "but not the accumulated dirt of years."

The First Christian Church at Fresno June 16, 1940, at 2 p.m. was the setting for the marriage of Miss Barbara Schlein of Fresno and Frederick Robertson Strickler of Bakersfield. Miss Schlein wore the traditional gown of white and was attended by a bridal party of three who wore summer frocks in varied shades of pink. The bride's gown was fashioned of white organdy over white slipper satin made with a bouffant skirt trimmed with narrow ruffles and ended in a short train. The bodice was full with a fitted waist, with sweetheart neckline and short puffed sleeves. The lace edged veil of tulle was fingertip in length and was draped from a heart-shaped coronet of lace trimmed with white blossoms. She carried a bouquet of white orchids, white bouvardia and lilies of the valley. Her only jewelry was a strand of pearls given to her by the bridegroom as a birthday gift last month. Formal frocks of organdy over satin were worn by the bride's attendants. All carried old fashioned bouquets of pink rosebuds, blue delphinium and pink gladioli. Walter C. Schlein escorted his daughter to the chancel where Rev. Galen Lee Rose of Berkeley and formerly of Fresno solemnized the ceremony. Urns of gladioli in pink shades were on the chancel against a background of greenery and candelabra. The garden of the Schlein home on Vassar Ave. was the setting for the reception at which relatives and guests were greeted by the bride couple. The bride table was covered with a white Mexican drawnwork cloth and centered with the wedding cake which was flanked by crystal bowls of pink larkspur. A sports frock of light blue mesh cloth with a navy blue topcoat and a white hat with navy trim composed the brides costume worn when she and the groom left on their wedding trip to the northern part of the state. On their return they will occupy their recently completed home

Sports Parade

By HENRY McLEMORE

NEW YORK, (UP)—I have it from the very highest authorities that Max Baer and Tony Galento will put on the worst heavyweight fight in history when they meet in Jersey City Tuesday night.

My authorities are none other than Baer and Galento themselves. Ever since this fight was made, months ago, the crackpot Californian and the portly Zany from across the Hudson have vied with each other in putting the blast on the spectacle. It's a wonder to me that any tickets have been sold despite the tub-thumping of the promoter, the press, and interested New Jersey parties.

Take Galento's blasts for example. At one time or another since he contracted for the fight he has called Baer everything under the sun except a good fighter. He has branded Baer as a bum, a bum who quits, a yellow bum, a worn out, tired, and exhausted bum, and a bum who couldn't lick any one of the Rover boys even with the aid of a fixed referee and a judge with a pre-marked scorecard.

And that's not all. He has branded Baer as a badly-conditioned bum, a playboy bum, and one who cuts and bleeds more quickly than an underprivileged beet. As Tony sees it, the fight won't last long enough for the less agile spectators to reach their seats.

Now is that any way to encourage customers to pay as much as $12.50 for a ringside seat? If a man is to believe Galento, and being a fighter his opinion is bound to carry some weight, the purchase of a ticket is a blanket admission that the purchaser is of the type that invests in wooden nickels, takes chances on a lottery involving the Brooklyn Bridge, and bets on the wrestling matches.

Galento has made it plain that he feels that anyone who buys a ticket for Tuesday's fight is paying his money to see a pushover pushed over.

Baer has been no less emphatic in his attacks on Galento as a fighter. At one time or another he has characterized Galento as a harmless old saloon keeper who couldn't bounce a noisy midget from his place of business, a hand-woven antique who will fall flat on his face after more than one round of any exercise more violent than solitaire, and a daffy, beer-guzzling wreck with only a pair of tight and a set of matching cauliflower ears to identify him as a fighting man.

What, a prospective customer is almost certain to ask himself before buying a ticket, what if both Max and Tony happen to be correct in their estimates of each other? No one likes to be a sucker, particularly after a dozen or two clear and vibrant warnings.

Still, even if events prove that both Tony and Max were correct in their opinions, there should be one moment of the fight worth the price of admission. I refer to that second at the finish when the winner's hand is raised in triumph, and he realizes that, come hell or high water, he has once again qualified for a fight with Joe Louis. I have a very sound belief that this is the one thing on earth that neither Max nor Tony wants to happen. And you can't blame them. One trip over Niagara in a canoe should be enough for any fellow.

Woman Driver, Ill, in Main Street Wreck

Fern O. Pritchett, of Kyburz, taken suddenly ill while driving through Main Street Friday morning, escaped injury when her car crashed into another machine driven by a Mr. Wise, of San Francisco, who was also unhurt.

Both cars were damaged, however not seriously, when the Kyburz lady became the victim of an apparent epileptic seizure and lost consciousness, her car being then driverless crashing into the other machine.

The stricken lady was carried into the office of the California State Automobile Association and a doctor was called. Upon regaining consciousness she was taken in charge by friends.

Strong Pressure Brought To Prevent Balkan Outbreak

By J. W. T. MASON
UNITED PRESS WAR EXPERT

J. W. T. MASON, United Press expert on war analysis during the World War, who has again returned to the United Press staff to contribute interpretive analyses of day to day war developments to United Press newspaper clients, including The Republican.

Reports that Rumania has agreed to surrender Bessarabia, North Bukovina, and several ports to Russia show that strong pressure has been brought to bear on King Carol by Hitler and Mussolini to prevent the European war spreading through the Balkans. Whether Germany and Italy can now calm the other Balkan nations who fear Russian aggression under the new situation which has so suddenly arisen must be of serious concern to the totalitarian belligerents.

Russia's announcement that a new six-day working week will be substituted for the present five-day week, to speed up armament production, is an indication that Stalin is preparing for further imperialistic adventures. Both Germany and Turkey have shown a quick desire to keep out of the way of the bear's claws, for the time being. The German government spokesman in Berlin declares Germany has no more interest in the Bessarabian issue than Germany showed in Russia's penetration into the small Baltic countries.

Rumania thus far has failed to obtain Hitler's protection, and Russia has been given a free hand for the moment in the Balkans as the lesser evil for Hitler. But, Italy's position has become very difficult by the recurrence of the communist push in southeastern Europe. Hitler's repudiation of Rumania may compel Mussolini to change his policy of seeking to become the protector of the Balkans, as long as Russia remains content with a Rumanian surrender of territory, and Hungary can be held in check. But should Russia require further concessions, as the sudden Slav increase in war preparedness implies, then the flames of war may well spread westward through the Balkans with unpredictable consequences. The temptation to Hungary is great and is the most important issue for the moment, following the reports of Russia's successful territorial grab.

Bulgaria and Jugoslavia already must fear the results of the disturbed balance of power in the Balkans which is sure to follow Rumania's partial dismemberment by Russia.

They cannot take the Russian thrust with equanimity. They must turn to Italy with gestures of appeal, but Italy is in a quandary, just as is Germany. Russia has to be allowed to go her own way to a limited extent. Beyond that, however, the Balkans will fight, bringing about an unpredictable change in the whole European situation.

Any expansion of the conflict in southeastern Europe or any disturbed balance of power leading to unrest in the Balkans would be of strategic advantage to Great Britain and an impediment to Germany. It would interfere with Hitler's desire to concentrate his maximum efforts against the British Empire, while continental Europe offered no distractions.

Turkey's announced non-belligerency is a valuable aid to Russia's Balkan ambitions. Whatever aids Russian imperialism for the time being must cause some confusion in Germany and Italy thus becoming helpful to Great Britain. It may be that present events in the southeastern Europe point to a possible delay in Germany's plans for a blitzkrieg against the British Isles. Hitler wants a static continent before he can direct his whole energy against Britain and if that is not to be, revision of his strategy would seem to be advisable.

Soviet Moves Into Rumania

ternational situation demands the most speedy solution of issues inherited from the past to lay foundations for a durable peace between countries.

Adolf Hitler and Benito Mussolini obviously hoped to prevent war in the Balkans until they have had opportunity to launch an offensive on a grand scale against the British Empire in general and the British Isles in particular.

Peace rumors between Germany and Britain were branded as false today by Neville Chamberlain, former prime minister of Britain and now Lord President of the council in the British cabinet of Winston Churchill.

Chamberlain—who had been assailed by some political foes as still likely to seek a settlement—declared the government was confident the war against Germany would end in victory.

The position of Turkey continued uncertain, but it appeared that the Turkish government was taking extensive military precautions.

ALL THE SPECTACULAR WONDERS of Maurice Maeterlinck's world renowned masterpiece comes to the screen in the gorgeous new Technicolor in "The Blue Bird," Friday and Saturday at the Empire Theatre. ## "THE BLUE BIRD," EMPIRE ATTRACTION FRIDAY AND SATURDAY, WILL BE FOLLOWED BY "JOHNNY APOLLO," OPENING SUNDAY

What is announced as Shirley Temple's last "little girl" picture opens today at the Empire theater for a two-day showing which will end Saturday night.

The vehicle is "The Blue Bird," based on the Maurice Maeterlinck masterpiece, and filmed in Technicolor.

"The Blue Bird" comes to the Empire with advance reports of being a picture of rare pictorial beauty and with the further suggestion that those who would see the picture at its best will do well to plan to avoid entering the theater in the middle of the picture.

"The Blue Bird" flies away Saturday evening to be succeeded by "Johnny Apollo," a dramatic story featuring Dorothy Lamour and Ty-Power.

The picture will be shown Sunday and Monday.
